

Youth Escapes Drowning at Beach

Casper Clemmer, 1107 Anapola, is recuperating from a battle with rip tides off Redondo Beach Tuesday when he narrowly escaped drowning. Clemmer had gone out about 50 feet from shore when he got into difficulties. He slipped into a hole and in his efforts to regain the shore against the swirling currents he became exhausted. Life guards rescued him, and first aid was administered. Clemmer soon recovered from his experience and is feeling no bad effects. A report published in a metropolitan newspaper that the use of a pulmotor was necessary was denied by Clemmer's family.

Action of the tides during the past few weeks have scooped great holes in the beach under water which makes bathing somewhat hazardous. It is said that beach authorities have warned the public to refrain from venturing far from the tide line until later in the season when the holes and gullies may disappear.

Methodists Plan Musical Events

Two musical events of unusual interest are scheduled for presentation at the Methodist church within the next week. Sunday evening the entire service will be given over to the choir of the Trinity Baptist church of Los Angeles. This choir will render its Easter cantata for the pleasure of the Torrance congregation. The cantata Sunday night will be an exchange courtesy in return for the Christmas cantata which the local Methodist choir gave in the Los Angeles church at the Christmas season. Rev. Green, the present pastor of Trinity Baptist church, was formerly pastor of the Torrance Baptist church.

On next Wednesday evening the Methodist church will hold another church night program, beginning with the pot luck supper at 6:30. The feature program of the evening will be entitled "The Singing School" and will be presented by the choir of the church. These church night programs are proving very popular. They provide an opportunity for sociability about the dinner tables, for high class entertainment, and for instruction in the class periods which follow the entertainment features. They are for the entire family and there is no charge or collection.
